Here's Where You Fit

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following are 25 rules on "How To Make Your Children" presented by Cecil Brown, Glades Juvenile Agent for the Florida Department of Corrections. The rules are a general order of police. The 25 statements are vividly part of the answer to the Herald's recent juvenile delinquency editorial, "Where Do You Fit?" which appeared Jan. 26.

1. Begin with infancy to give the child everything he wants. In this way, he will grow up to believe the world owes him a living.
2. When he picks up bad words, laugh at them. This will make him think he's cute. It will also encourage him to pick up "cute" phrases that will blow off the top of your head later.
3. Never give him any spiritual training. Wait until he is 21 and then let him "decide for himself."
4. Avoid use of the word "wrong." It may develop a guilt complex. This will condition him to believe later, when he is arrested for stealing a car, that society is against him and he is being prosecuted.
5. Pick up everything he leaves lying around — books, shoes, clothes. Do everything for him so that he will be experienced in throwing all responsibility on others.
6. Let him read any printed matter he can get his hands on. Be careful that the silvers and drinking glasses are sterilized but let him mind feast on garbage.
7. Quarrel frequently in the presence of your children. In this way, they will not be too shocked when the home is broken up later.
8. Give a child all the spending money he wants. Never let him earn his own. Why should he have things as tough as you had them?
9. Satisfy his every craving for food, drink and comfort. See that every sensual desire is gratified. Denial may lead to harmful frustration.
10. Take his part against neighbors, teachers, policemen. They are all prejudice against your child.
11. When he gets into real trouble, apologize for yourself by saying, "I never could do anything with him."
12. Prepare for a life of grief. You will be likely to have it.

Weed Workshop Being Held Now

Some 20 University of Florida staff members are meeting for the second day this morning at Belle Glade to discuss weed control research, according to Dr. W. T. Forrester, Jr., Chemist-in-Charge, Everglades Experiment Station.

According to Dr. J. O. Orsenigo, chairman of the group, the university weed workshop meets annually in different locations throughout the state to acquaint staff members and their USDA associates with current weed control work and problems.

The meetings, which began yesterday at Glades Office Building, continue today and tomorrow. At a business meeting this afternoon, a new chairman will be selected in addition to other business.

The program includes progress reports on weed control research in fields ranging from aquatics to vegetables. Special topics for discussion include her-

Glades vegetable crops suffered another apparent from adverse weather early this week when the mercury dipped to a nippy 33; however, damage — principally to beans and corn — was reported lighter than the body blow suffered in mid-January.

The low temperature reported Monday morning at Everglades Experiment Station was responsible to considerable loss on most crops, a light pepper crop suffered a good deal. Reports ranged from slight damage on beans and corn to hard hit at Pothoke and other spots in the Glades.

Carlot equivalents moving by car and rail continue to lag behind last year's shipments. Only a small fraction of the difference is due to new carlot ratios used in the computation of equivalents by crop reporting services.

Equivalents to date amount to 8,155, a drop from last year's 11,519 for a comparable period. Rail shipments, up five cars from last week's 300, still lag behind last year by 1,929 cars.

There is real activity reported in the celery deal with December's rains beginning to show on yields. Demand and movement are good with prices up for the larger sizes. Sales range $2.00-2.25 depending on size.

A nominal supply of beans was reported. Valencia sales ranged $6.50-7.00 with corn out of the picture except for scattered supplies until mid-April.

Only a "handful" of lettuce was reported available; escarole and endive sales were mostly at $1.00 with some $1.25. Radishes are moving at $1.00 with shipments moderate and demand lighter.

Carlot shipments for the week moving by truck and rail totaled 693, a drop from 849.

TWO FACES OF PROGRESS

New Phone Directories

Show Big 1960 Increase

Small Claims Court Judge F. A. Currie found it necessary to mail the 1960 directories Feb. 23-24, according to Zeke O'Farrell, Glades Group Manager for Southern Bell Telephone Co. 5,000 books will be distributed, an increase of 500 from last year.

The book contains new and changed listings, and is easy to distinguish from the old 1959 book through its new and modern design. As usual, the book contains its classified section (yellow pages) with business listings under alphabetical headings by their business or professions.

O'Farrell urged that old books be discarded upon receipt of new ones, and, as always, please call "Information" when the number you need is not in the book.

Increase in telephone subscribers has always been a barometer of growth and modernization in the Glades.

Gambler Convicted

On Numbers Counts

A convicted Belle Glade bolton peddler, James Mason, was found guilty Tuesday night in municipal court on a second and third charge involving the numbers game, according to Police Chief Charles Goodlett.

Judge N. D. Lloyd fined Mason $400 and costs and 60 days in jail on a selling charge, and an additional $200 and costs or 60 days for possession of numbers after Mason was found guilty on both charges.

The Negro, 35, was arrested by Palm Beach law firm, who a West-tempted to quash the case by the semi-final round. The procedure since the arresting officer allegedly had no probable cause, no warrant or search warrant.

According to testimony of Lt. V. R. Clark, Belle Glades Police Department, Mason was observed by Clark in a supposed transaction with another Negro, Case, allegedly dropped tickets to the ground when he saw Lt. Clark. Mason was later searched at the police station where more bolton papers were found in his hat.

Another Negro woman testified that Mason sold her numbers.

Mason was fined $500 or 60 days in jail on a possession charge involving the numbers racket. Police presently believe Mason works for a bolton banker who operates in a nearby town.

Practice Alert

National Guardsmen Test Their Skills

Glades area National Guardsmen participated in a practice drill Monday night during a two-hour period which began at 5:30 p. m., according to 2nd Lt. Charles D. Hickman, Post Commander of Belle Glades National Guard Armory.

According to Hickman, all units of the 160th Transportation Battalion were alerted via phone calls, radio and television for both coastal and Glades companies.

During the practice alert, staged to test the rapid mobilizing ability of the National Guard, Guardsmen assumed a mythical problem and set out to bring the situation back to order. While coastal units created their own simulated disaster, Glades Guardsmen assumed that a major prison break had taken place at Glades State Prison Farm.

Lt. Hickman reported that about 45 minutes was required to get the unit mobilized—some coming from as far as Moore Haven. Six posts were created for the problem in addition to the roving patrol.

Following the actual problem, coffee and sandwiches were served by Guard cooks before the Guardsmen began their regular Monday night drill which deals with pipeline construction.

While both prison security personnel and Guardsmen would spring into action in an actual "break," only the Guardsmen set up roving patrols and stationary positions.

Although presently attached to the Quartermaster Corps, the National Guard still maintains training procedures in civil defense and local security.

National Guard units through out the nation annually stage full-scale practice alerts to keep mobilization plans at the highest peak of readiness. Each unit has a detailed alert plan which enables Guard commanders on

Engineering Magazine Article Spotlights Belle Glade

Under the by-line of Belle Glade City Manager C. B. Talmadge, the municipally-interested "American Cities Magazine" has prepared first drafts of an article which will spotlight dealing with Belle Glade's sewerage program. The article was prepared in part by E. F. Spitzer, engineering editor of the magazine.

"Belle Glade's sewerage problems," the article states, "are probably the most difficult to solve of any in the state of Florida. We now have the answers, as well as a sewage treatment plant designed to serve a population of 10,000 and a sewer system that covers about one-fourth of the city area and serves about one-half of our present population."

Muck proved the biggest problem, the article continued, both from engineering and financial standpoints. Muck, as many Glades folk know, will burn when dry, but when wet has neither vertical nor lateral stability. The solution to the problem was worked out in a series of articles by the city's consulting engineers, Russell & Axon.

Their solution was the excavating of all trenches of the sewerage lines to the first layer of rock and backfilling with crushed limestone to the spring line of the sewer pipe.

The flat terrain made it necessary to utilize a series of gravity sub-systems feeding into pump stations. Construction bids were taken in September 1948 and the system was turned on one year later.

Frank O'Brien, the Russell & Axon firm, told the city council during the planning stages of the system that the city's system and construction would attract national attention because of engineering problems it had just met.

AMERICAN CITIES MAGAZINE Editor E. F. Spitzer is seen here during his recent visit to Belle Glade where he gathered material for an article soon to be published about Belle Glade. Pictured (l-r) are City Manager C. B. Talmadge, under whose by-line the article appears, James Moon, plant operator, who supplied technical data, Spitzer, and Mayor Paul Davidson, who also extended the city's hospitality during the editor's visit.

EDITOR'S NOTE: For the first time in the state's history, the state of Florida contracted with a private engineering and financial firm to make Belle Glade the subject of a technical study. The study was published under other names of interest about the city's sewerage system made up part one of a series on the system.

In its sixth month of operation, the plant has maintained, for the most part, top efficiency. The magazine article goes into minute detail in the description of plant and equipment. The technical data is of great interest to cities with similar problems or interests.

The article concludes with the following summary: "Belle Glade has overcome a great many difficulties in getting its sewerage program off to a good start, but more work must be done to complete the

Prison Educational Program Is Started

To give prisoners a chance to better their eventual standing in the community and to give the prisoners some further means to qualify his existence are two of the goals hoped for as the educational program gains momentum at Glades State Prison Farm.

Under the direction of W. L. McCormick, director of education, both day and night classes in remedial education are being conducted by inmate instructors, four in day school and six in night school. Night school has been open since the eighth grade. Eventually, the program will include the issuance of certificates of the completion of eighth grade level education.

The program is presently a part of the county's educational system—except financially. The schooling has been accredited by state and county.

Osceola Archer Wins Group Crown As Five Compete In Tournament

Five Osceola Center archers represented Belle Glade during the South Florida Regional Field Archery Tournament Sunday, Feb. 7. A score of 354 by Jerry Parsons of Belle Glade topped the intermediate division.

Other archers shooting were Charles Mann, Arce Salvador, Dave Miller and Julian Griggs. This tournament consisted of two 28-target field rounds which means shooting 224 shots at 24 different distances, Griggs said, the most difficult type of official field tournament.

Mann entered the men's division and shot a higher score than he had previously been shooting. Salvador fired a 348, just under Parsons' shooting. Jerry's trophy, an archer shooting a bow and arrow, was presented on the spot. His score was the highest any Osceola archer has ever made in a similar tournament.

A word of appreciation is due the Belle Glade Citizens, Griggs commented, for their donations which have been used in the

Post 8181 VFW Buddy Poppy Day

Buddy Poppy Day, conducted by Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 8181 and its auxiliary, will be Saturday, February 20th, according to Lee Rhymes, Commander of Post 8181, and Mrs. Bertha Workman, President of the unit auxiliary.

According to a joint announcement of the VFW, proceeds of the Buddy Poppy go for five major projects:

1. The veteran himself gets paid for making the poppies. To some this means all his earnings to take care of his family.
2. Rehabilitation of the veterans in hospitals and homes to help him be self-supporting.
3. For orphan at Eaton Rapids, Michigan, for children of deceased overseas veterans killed in action or who died from wounds received in combat.
4. Since each state has its own "home" at Eaton Rapids, proceeds help only Florida children.
5. For community service and child welfare for all service-men and families regardless of overseas service.

6. For a direct service to the three veterans hospitals in Florida, especially the unit at Coral Gables where at least two members of the 8181 auxiliary go once each month to work with the hospital for hospitalized veterans. They visit Glades veterans and when necessary, take the veterans' families or the veteran himself.

Workers will be on the street Saturday selling the Buddy Poppies. Please give.

Belle Glade Future Homemakers Visited State Fair

A few members of the Future Homemakers of America chapter of Belle Glade High School had a three-day trip to the State Fair at Tampa under the guidance of Mrs. Hazel Litchfield, home economics teacher and group sponsor. They visited homecoming projects and the many other booths and took in some life in the big city before returning to Belle Glade. Arriving Friday night, the girls enjoyed dinner and a show before their nighty rest. Bright and early at 9 a. m. the group entered the fairgrounds and were instructed to visit ten booths featuring homecoming themes then visit others.

By 2 p. m. with their chores finished, they were allowed to visit other activities at the fair before returning to their hotel for rest or a show.

press Gardens to view the water show before returning to Belle Glade at 7 p. m. Chaperoning were Mrs. Litchfield, Mrs. Russell Tucker, and Mrs. H. V. Dora. It's a busy season for our band students who are holding daily sectional rehearsals after school in addition to their regular one hour practice sessions, in preparation for their participation in events scheduled for the month of March. Director Frederick Stevens announced this week the band will take part in the Sun Dance Festival in West Palm Beach, Fla. on the 18th they will participate in the Fiesta Del Sol Parade in Lake Wales, Fla. and on the 23rd will be the Solo and Ensemble District contest here and March 30th the regular Band District Concert in Belle Glade. A superior rating from district is needed to qualify for state contest. This event this year will be held in St. Petersburg.

Band soloists are Ronnie Geckler, clarinet; Barbara Wolf, flute; Craig Boots, tenor saxophone; Sammy Gamble, flute; Karen Vadass, piano; Gloria Smith, piano; Ginger Christfield, piano; Pat Anderson, piano; Sidney Binkley and Cherry Bridges, twirling.

Beginning next week the band will be drilled in marching and formations.

Stevens, who is a member of the Junior Class, is consistently listed on the high school honor roll.

Playing the baritone horn, this young man has made quite a name for himself. He was honored in January by being chosen as one of six baritone players to play in the All-State Concert Band. Several years ago while attending the University of Miami Summer Band camp he was chosen as the camp's most improved player.

Last year, while competing in solo competition for the first time, Ronnie won superior rating for his performance of "Willow Echoes" by Frank Silverman. On March 23rd he will perform in solo competition once more, this time playing Herbert L. Clarke's difficult solo, "The Shores of the Mighty Pacific."

Director Stevens states that Ronnie is an excellent sight-reader and shows great technical facility. His attitude and enthusiasm, as well as his playing ability, are a great asset to the Belle Glade Band.

Teacher Of The Week

This week's teacher was born in Hamlet, North Carolina, on March 6, 1915. He attended college at University of Texas. His favorite food is Steak. His pet peeve is keeping your eyes on the clock.

This week The Herald begins a special feature of High school news collected and reported by high school students and presented in this "paper-within-a-paper" manner called, "The Bleating Rams."

News gathering is to be handled under the direction of Miss Maxine Throop, High School News Coordinator, at The Herald. With the healthy cooperation of the students, this feature will appear every other week.

It will be made up of news and features articles broadcast directly to the students.

News can be turned into The Herald's special correspondents at the school or reported directly to anyone at The Herald office. All school activities and school news will be reported in this manner with the possible exception of late sports news which will be covered elsewhere in each issue.

Working at the school will be Sue Clarke, senior reporter; Gertha Tatum, junior; Iris Blum and Margo Averill, sophomore; Grace Earwood, freshman; with Paula Richey and Joan Fortenberry from junior high.

The news will be for students, written and collected by students and it's contemplated that every student will be able to participate in some way to bring news of the schools to publication. Help us to make this the type newspaper you want.

A Report From Your Student Council

The main job of the Student Council is to serve as representatives of the entire Student Body in all matters concerning school activities.

We have undertaken various projects so far this year, the main one being the publishing of a Student Handbook which contained all the information needed to be known by a student of our school. During football season we were responsible for the pep rallies, and we sponsored two dances after the football games.

At our last meeting we discussed the building of a school sign to be constructed in front of our school and it was decided that we would help pay for this sign.

The problem also arose of how to get students to attend various school sponsored events and the fact was brought out that member of the community, the parents of the students, should be expected to give their support to these functions also.

Pres. Douglas Thompson

through their ability and enthusiasm shown in night work, McCormick explained.

The day school presently has 20 students; the night classes 35. Presently, the work is remedial work with the 3R's, however, vocational classes for cooks, bakers and mechanics may be added soon.

As a result of the school, some illiterate inmates have written home in six months or less. The letters weren't polished, of course, but it was certainly an accomplishment for the student.

McCormick, a native of Indiana with a bachelor of science degree from Purdue University (1934) was previously in business of his own in Indiana and South Bay. He has been born business at South Bay to join the prison farm staff.

Presently he was a supervisor of engineering instructors in the Navy.

The instructors are culled from the inmates, and their qualifications are usually high school graduation or more. At least one instructor has a master's degree.

The prisoners are generally enthusiastic about the training. They apparently appreciate the opportunity to learn and become better citizens because of it.

Rice Quotas Get Vote Approval

Rice Growers approved marketing quotas for the 1960 rice crop by a favorable vote of 90.7 percent in a referendum held Dec. 15, according to preliminary results.

Last year the vote for quotas on the 1959 rice crop was 86.9 percent favorable. Approval by at least two-thirds of the growers voting in a referendum is required before quotas can be put into effect.

Because rice marketing quotas as will be in effect for 1960 crop, rice compliance with rice acreage allotments is a condition of eligibility for price support on rice produced next year.

The "advalorem" minimum rice support price for the 1960 crop, as announced Dec. 1, 1959, is 65¢ per hundredweight or 75¢ per bushel.

Growers who exceed their 1960 allotments will be subject to a marketing quota penalty on their excess rice. The amount of the penalty will be equal to 65 percent of the rice parity price (as of June 15, 1960) per hundredweight on their excess production as required by law when quotas are approved.

Now That You Put It That Way . . .

Somebody just said the only thing rising faster than the cost of living is the cost of government.

Keeping Pace With Progress

The news that the City of Belle Glade will engage professional planners from the Florida Development Commission to create a modern program of city planning greets us as a balm to a stinging sore.

Over the years for one reason or another in civic management and progress of our community, we have stumbled through situations with a good deal of luck. Time after time we've heard the remark that "it could have all been avoided with a little prior planning." That may soon be a thing of the past if the city carries through a proposed planning program with regard to streets, utilities, zoning and other facets of municipal activity.

Through planned zoning, we may side-step previous pitfalls. Improper zoning can even affect our health. Knowing zoning problems in advance will allow time to plan our moves. It might conceivably allow entrepreneurs to catch a glimpse of anticipated growth and development of our area whereby they might plan bigger stores, more stores or a wider range of service.

Through utility planning, we'll know where our sewer and water lines should go to serve more people and produce greater revenue. The city will see through projections if water lines are adequate or not.

The need for streets, parks, playgrounds, municipal services and more personnel might well be known in advance all because of proper prior planning.

Planning in the Glades means progress, and progress is this area's middle name. The means could easily be in our grasp. We look forward to sessions with the Florida Development Commission representative with avid anticipation.

Open Your Mouth And Tell

A recently-organized association of rental property owners at Belle Glade has enthusiastically approached the city's current sewerage rates with a cocked eyebrow, and its members subsequently provided the city with a graphic illustration—they said—of the inequity of the rate structure.

Pleading for more equitable rates, they approached the city for relief and were told that nothing could be done until the present rate structure had been tested over a 12-month period to learn how much income could be produced.

The city commission acknowledged that until the sewerage system had been in operation that long, no one actually knew if the rates would go up or could be reduced in specific areas. Bond holders, it was learned, would be reluctant to permit changes until they know the sewerage system can support itself.

So, there's the problem. Long before the switch was turned last September, the city held hearings to get evidence that the rates were or were not equitable or discriminatory. The few who spoke either failed to protest long enough or they failed to see what was coming.

There lies a moral: Let your feelings be heard by participation in municipal government, find out what's going on, what's being planned, what's happening. Learn whether civic decisions affect you and your neighbor.

When the city commission meeting plans to an empty house, it means—among other things—that few people are vitally enough interested in their city's affairs to sit at first hand what's going on. Get up and express your opinion once in a while instead of waiting until the shooting's over to see what occurred. Open your mouth and yell, figuratively, when you see problems ahead.

Chamber Of Commerce Question

"The announcement that a member of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce had expelled one of its members for what it termed 'unethical business practices' made us sit up and take notice. It was a concrete punctuation mark to the statement that the Chamber of Commerce protects as well as promotes.

It also brings to mind a normal question, "What about all the other businesses which aren't members of the Chamber of Commerce?" Does the fact that they're not members mean they aren't qualified? In a great many instances the answer to that one is: "Certainly not." Then what is the reason?

Among the many wise comments made by Ben Franklin was the remark about hanging together before we hang separately. Our Chamber of Commerce has two principal activities: (1) The promotion of better business and (2) The promotion of our community. If we're not all in the pile, some of us can't be promoted.

The Chamber of Commerce tells us that when inquiries come in about the number of certain types of businesses, it feels justified in mentioning only those businesses which are Chamber of Commerce members.

More members means more dues; more money to promote; wider areas to be covered; greater services to members. Being a member of our Chamber of Commerce not only benefits the member but the community. Why should a select group of firms or individuals drag their feet and pour syrup in our wheels? Doesn't it seem unfair that they should get a free ride on the bandwagon that promotes our area?

Heart Feature:

What Place Does Overweight Have In The Heart Disease Picture?

Does overweight cause heart disease?
 "A yes" or "no" answer can't be given to this question, says Dr. Sidney Davidson of the Heart Association of Palm Beach and Martin Counties. It is true, however, the Heart Association points out, that overweight adds to the work of the heart. This is why physicians insist that people with heart diseases keep their weight down.

However, overweight cannot be called the cause of heart and blood vessel diseases. Here, on the other hand, is the absence of excess pounds a guarantee that a person will not get heart trouble.

The one thing, though, that the doctors associated with the Heart Association are firm on is: overweight is a health hazard, whether a person has heart disease or not.

Recently the American Heart Association sponsored a special medical symposium on overweight. Speakers at this meeting were in general agreement that it was much easier to prevent overweight than to try to cure it. They emphasized that prevention instead of dieting was the best approach to weight control. And the best way to prevent pounds from piling up, they pointed out, was to keep in balance the amount of energy taken in as food and the amount of energy used up in our every-day activities.

When the energy used up is equal to the energy in the food eaten, weight remains the same. Upset this balance and weight is either gained or lost.

One big factor that upsets the balance for many of us these days is the labor-saving devices, the machines and appliances that make our lives more comfortable. Not too long ago the housewife spent 240 calories scrubbing the family wash and another 50 calories hauling it to the line. Today, dumping the clothes in the automatic washer and tapping a button takes no more than 15 calories. Walking, once a necessity as well as a healthful pastime, has given way to another energy saving device—the automobile.

Moreover, as people grow older, their changes in metabolism which reduce food requirements still more. Yet, because of habit people continue to eat the same large amounts of food they may once have required.

You can help restore the balance between energy output and food intake by increasing the amount of moderate regular exercise, the Heart Association points out. This need be no strenuous activity.

1. Good general nutrition is important to everyone. Eat a varied and well-balanced diet. Use "nutritional common sense"—you are in doubt about what to eat, ask your physician.

2. Keep your weight normal. Your doctor will tell you the ideal weight for you.

3. Don't put yourself on a special diet. In the first place, it may be harmful. Second, you may not need it.

4. If your doctor HAS put you on a special diet, follow it exactly. Don't make "just this once" exceptions.

Special Series: Income Tax Fax

Should you file a joint return?

If you were married on December 31, 1949 you may file a joint return with your spouse, regardless of how long a time you have been married and regardless of whether or not your spouse has income.

If your net taxable income is over $2,000, a joint return will result in a lower tax. In making a joint return you include all the income, exemptions and deductions of both the husband and wife. In heading the return you list both names. For instance: John J. Mary M. Doe. Also, you show both social security numbers and both occupations if both have them. It is not necessary that both have income in order to file a joint return.

Husband and wife must both sign and date a joint return. Each assumes the responsibility for any tax due. If one does not pay, then the other must. If you are entitled to a refund, the check will be issued in both names and both will have to endorse the check before cashing.

In some cases it is not possible to secure the signature of your spouse directly on the tax return. It is possible to file a joint return without having your spouse actually sign the return itself. This is done by having the spouse sign Treasury Department form 936 which is an authorization to prepare, sign and file a joint income tax return.

A signed copy of this form 936 is attached to the return in lieu of the spouse's signature. If any tax has been paid separately, by withholding or on an estimate, full credit may be taken on the joint return.

Uncle Dan From Democrat River

Dear Mister Editor:
 The boys up at the country store Saturday night was paying their respects to the medical profession. We got one feller that sets in on our sessions pretty regular that ain't ain't fresh, shade trees, pure spring water and wedded matherhood. Everything else he's got, and he was giving doctors a hard time Saturday night.

He allowed, for instant, that you can't hardly git a doctor to come out in the country no more and when you go to town to see one you have to set and wait so long there aint no chance of giving the disease in its early stages. He said his wife went to see the doctor about a cold in the head and afore he got to her it had developed into double pneumonia.

Another feller said we wouldn't have no country doctors in another 20 year, just specialists. He claims a country doctor was asked by the court, and on the other hand, in the case of the specialist, you've got what he treats.

I ain't knocking doctors, Mister Editor, but I did read not long ago where a New York surgeon was asked by the court what he operated on a certain patient fer, and the doctor said he operated on him fer what he had—appendicitis and $300.

Some of the fellows bring up the rumor that Dr. U. S. Weather Bureau was going to git out a booklet next year that would give the weather forecast for a whole year. It was voted unanimous that it ain't going to sell unless they put in a few jokes and cooking recipes.

Folks has got used to having a little of everything in their almanacs and they ain't going to change their reading habits fer the U. S. Weather Bureau. The jokes and recipes is the main thing, and the weather forecast is secondary, especially if it's coming out of Washington. Fer instant, they're saying that we're in for a cold winter but I ain't cutting no extra fire wood till I have time to git my Grier's Almanac down and see fer shore what kind of winter we'll have.

Them weather bureau folks don't none too good just figuring it out from day to day, and I ain't got much faith in 'em on an annual basis. But Ed Doolittle says he'll order one if they put in a few jokes and some cake recipes fer his old lady, and that if they git cramped fer space they can just leave out the weather business.

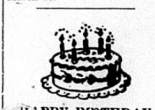

Yours truly,
 Uncle Dan
